CONVICTS OVERCAME

Guards, Captured Warden's Wife, and Using Her as a Shield

They Made a Dash for Liberty. In General Shooting One of Them Was Killed, and Another Fatally Wounded.

Cañon City, Colo., June 22.—One convict was shot and killed and another was fatally wounded by guards at the state penitentiary today in an attempt to escape. At 8 o'clock a number of convicts overpowered the guards at the wash house, securing the keys. On the way to the front gate the convicts captured Mrs. Clegg, wife of the warden and placed her in front of them. Reaching the gate they dynamited it and got away taking Mrs. Clegg with them. The warden instructed the guard to pick the convicts off, taking care not to shoot his wife. When the convicts released her, in the shooting, which was general from the guards, convict Guy Kendall was instantly killed, James Armstrong, the ring leader, was shot by night captain, Clark, and will die. Tom Fisher was captured on the bank of the big ditch. Two other men are reported captured at some little distance from the prison and two others are known to be gone, one of them wounded. They are on horseback, having strapped a wagon, cutting the horses loose and escaping.

The British were obliged to retire after losing four men killed and sixty wounded. The enemy's losses were estimated at 200 killed or wounded. Reinforcements are being sent to the British. A British gunboat has been ordered to Garuway, on the Liberian coast in consequence of the recent looting of British and French steamers which have run ashore there.

STARTLING TESTIMONY.

It Shows Scranton to Be a Town Where Municipal Corruption Thrives.

Scranton, Pa., June 22.—Startling testimony was produced today before a sub-committee investigating committee of the Senate to examine into the charges of bribery made by ex-county clerk George E. Stevenson, in relation to the defeat of the Dalton street railway franchise ordinance, in council last Thursday night. W. P. Boyle, one of the promoters of the Dalton railway company testified that when councilman David B. Evans, of the fourth ward, demanded of him the presence of Mr. Stevenson $500 for himself and $400 for each of the other councilmen. He named the following councilmen: John E. Regan, Thomas O'Boyle, James P. Maloney, Thomas C. Melvin, John Naegeli, Thomas Cosgrove, Edward J. Coleman, Malena Coyne, J. J. McAndrew and Richard Morgan. Testimony was corroborated by Mr. Stevenson. Both men testified that Evans threatened that unless the money was forthcoming immediately, in gold, the ordinance would be either amended to death or defeated. The ordinance was subsequently loaded down with impossible amendments, and then the quorum was broken. The municipal league will prosecute the councilmen. Evans is already under arrest. More warrants will be issued

St. Petersburg, June 22.—Officials at both the court and the ministry of the interior, say the reports that an attempt was recently made on the life of the Czar are untrue. GRAND JURY FOUND MORE Indictments for Conspiracy to Defraud the Government.

Washington, June 22.—The grand jury, which has been investigating postal affairs, today, returned an indictment against August W. Machen, Diller B. Groff, Samuel A. Groff, Geo. E. Lorenz and Martha J. Lorenz, the two latter being residents of Toledo, Ohio. As previously stated in these dispatches, the charge is conspiracy, to defraud the government. The indictment is based on section 544 of the revised statutes, which provides a penalty of $10,000 or four years imprisonment, or both in the discretion of the court.

There are twelve counts to the indictment, eleven of which are substantially the same as those found previously against Machen and the Groffs. The first count of the present indictments, which relates to the conspiracy charge sets forth that on June 29, 1900 in the District of Columbia, Lorenz, Mrs. Lorenz, Machen, and the Groff brothers "conspired, combined, confederated and agreed to defraud the United States government of its moneys" by the following arrangement: Machen should advise and

Gonzales, editor of the state, in this city last January, was begun here today. DEMAND FOR PUNISHMENT

Of Assassins Is Placing Ministry of Ser. via in an Unenviable Position.

Russia's Firm Position on the Question Almost Caused a Panic in the Cabinet, Which Anxiously Awaits the King.

Belgrade, June 22.—The position of the Ministry is becoming more unenviable daily in consequence of the Russian and Austrian demands for the punishment of the assassins of King Alexander and Queen Draga. The terms of Russian note almost cause a panic among the cabinet ministers who are anxiously awaiting the arrival of King Peter to extricate them from the dilemma. The war minister is the paramount power in the ministry as he is backed by the entire army, and he threatens severe re-ment in the case of any hint by a member of the cabinet of the punishment of the conspirators. The promotions of officers sent from Geneva are variously explained as either intended as an open defiance or as being the result of alarm caused by the attitude of the army. The foreign representatives who have not been instructed are asking their respective governments what attitude they shall assume at the reception of King Peter. The Russian minister is in a quandary. He had resumed relations with the provisional government when the Czar telegraphed his recognition of King Peter but the minister takes the subsequent publication of Russia's demands for punishment as an indication that Russia will possibly order the suspension of relations with the government until the murders are punished.

Meanwhile the preparations for the reception of King Peter continues. A public holiday has been proclaimed, provincial deputies are coming to Belgrade, free wine and beer are to be provided by the government and the town is to be given up to rejoicings.

CARDINALS WERE ELECTED

At Consistory, Pope Named and Members of Sacred College Ratified.

Rome, June 22.—The consistory today was specially important owing to the persistent rumors regarding the Pope's ill health, and the previous postponements. Naturally, a ceremony in which the Pope, half hidden in vestments, is borne on a chair and is continually assisted, was not the best opportunity to judge of his appearance or the state of his health, but a man capable of undergoing the strain of such a function has plenty of vitality. The Pontiff's features seemed slightly more clear-cut, and his hands trembled perceptibly, but his voice was plainly heard though it had lost something of its power. The ceremony was shortened as much as possible, and only lasted about thirty-five minutes. All the cardinals of the Curia, were invited to the Vatican half an hour before the Pope's appearance and they assembled in the consistory hall, in order of precedence, forming a striking picture. The entrance of the Pope, clad in white vestments, and surrounded by his trusted companions, in their red robes, gave a finishing touch to the scene. After receiving the homage of those present, the Pontiff recited a prayer, and then proceeded to the nomination of the new cardinals.

The traditional secrecy was maintained, though now it is largely a matter of form. The Pope proposed each new cardinal, the members of the Sacred College, signifying their assent by raising their caps. The following were created cardinals: Monsignor Fischer, archbishop of Cologne; Monsignor Talliani, papal nuncio, at Vienna; Monsignor Caviechioni, secretary of the congregation of the council; Monsignor Ajuti, papal nuncio, at Lisbon; Monsignor Nocella, secretary of the consistorial congregation. Monsignor Katschthaler, archbishop of Salzburg, Austria; most Rev. Herrero Y. Espinosa, archbishop of Valencia.

The Pope transferred Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli from the bishopric of Frazeati to that of Porto Santa Rufina, which is of higher rank. Cardinal Satolli was transferred from the titular bishopric of Santa Maria in Aracoreli to the diocese of Frazeati, near Rome, the summer residence of the Roman Aristocracy.

Afterwards the Pope announced the nominations of several archbishops who had been appointed by brief. The Pontiff appointed Cardinal Agnelli, who has been replaced as prefect of economy of the Propaganda, to be vice chancellor of the Chiesa Della Volpe.

At the conclusion of the consistory, the Pope went to the throne room, where, surrounded by the Cardinals and the Papal court, he received the homage of the new archbishops and bishops. The ancient ceremonies were observed each of the prelates kissing the Pontiff's foot, and receiving the apostolic benediction.

In the meanwhile the masters of ceremonies, accompanied by church dignitaries proceeded to the residence of Monsignors Fischer, Caviechioni and Nocella, announced their appointments, and informed them that the Pope would bestow the red hats on them at a public consistory to be held Thursday. Specially selected members of the noble guard will be sent to officially convey the news to appointees who are abroad.

The Pope at the consistory, delivered a short allocution, which he intended to keep private though containing nothing of great importance. He merely greeted the cardinals and said he liked to discuss only pleasant subjects but satisfactory events were mingled with painful occurrences. The demonstrations of loyalty from all over the world on the occasion of his jubilee had caused him great joy. He had been saddened however by the persecutions of which the church was the object.

The Pope did not add anything but he evidently referred to the suppression of the unauthorized congregations in France.

DEMANDING ATTENTION.

New York, June 22.—Sales of an automatic cashier to the government for postoffice use was taken up today again by the federal grand jury in Brooklyn. Today was the fourth session of the grand jury devoted to this line of investigation.

The principal witness today was P. O. Inspector Oldfield, George F. Miller, agent for the cashier company, was in the federal building, and it was supposed that he had been subpoenaed to testify. It was said that the grand jury was having much trouble in getting testimony from other than the postoffice inspectors, and this was adduced as the reason why no results of the investigation had yet been made public.

Late Last Night, Four Men Killed and One Dangerously Injured.

dangerously injured. The dead are fireman Mike Durall, brakeman Wm. Atkinson and two unknown men, supposed to be tramps. A number of cattle, horses and hogs, were killed.

WADE GIVEN EXTENSION.

Circuit Court Granted Him Respite Until September Term of Court.

Alfred Wade will not be electrocuted on June 27, for the murder of K. L. Sullivan. Saturday, Circuit Judge at Toledo, granted a motion of defendant to suspend the execution of sentence.

Just when he will be electrocuted, it is not known. The execution must be until fall, for circuit court granted a stay of execution until the next term of court, or until such time as it can hear the case. The next term begins in September, and the case cannot be heard until then, anyway. If the court affirms the judgment of the lower court then it will have to fix the date of sentence.

This is simply a formal matter, and the suspension is granted because the court hasn't time to hear the case on its merits before June 27. Brand Whitlock appeared for Al. Wade and has filed a bill of exceptions in his behalf. Whitlock stated that it would not be just to execute Al before the result of the Landis case was known, or before the fate of the other two members of the gang was certain. He said Al was the least guilty of any of the three. He explained the points which he thought the court should review.

Assistant Prosecutor James S. Martin appeared for the state, and said that he did not care either to oppose or consent to the motion, but left it for the court. He said, however, that the state did not wish to have any one of the gang electrocuted before the cases against the others were determined. Judge Parker for the court stated that the reasons stated by counsel for defense were sufficiently meritorious to warrant a review.

He also said the case could not be heard on its merits until next fall, and so suspended sentence until the court could finally hear and determine the case. Al is now in the penitentiary.

MONEYED MEN WERE ALARMED

By False Newspaper Stories Which Started in Columbus, Says Adams.

J. W. Adams and Charles A. Sarber, partners in the defunct Adams & Sarber Oil Company were in consultation with their attorneys Loesser & Grossman in the Society for Savings building in Cleveland, Saturday, when a "Press" man was shown into one of the private offices. The bankrupt oil men readily assented to talk about the situation. They declared they had turned over everything they had possessed to satisfy the claims of creditors and had not a dollar left.

The trouble started some time ago in the publication of an article in a Columbus newspaper, or rather a series of stories," said Sarber. "We had closed a small unprofitable branch office in Columbus and the man on the newspaper was a very small stockholder. He published an item to the effect that the Adams & Sarber oil company had suspended, which was absolutely untrue."

"It had not been for that," interrupted Adams, "we would have had $50,000 in the bank and had all of our bills paid today."

"Well," continued Sarber, "a Cincinnati paper copied the story from the Columbus paper. It got into a paper in Marietta and scared all of our drill-

BLIND

Will Be Made to See Again With Polonium

A New Element Recently Discovered,

Which Is Much More Powerful Than Radium, and Very Valuable.

One-half Grain Is Worth $20,000 And the Discoverers Control All There Is of It in Sight.

Polonium, the new element which has been exploited in a series of most interesting experiments by Prof. W. Markwell before the chemical congress in Berlin, is really the discovery of a woman—one of the most learned women in the world, and one who is today recognized as among the truly great pioneers of chemistry, says a New York dispatch to the Chicago Tribune.

Married to a Frenchman, she is a Pole by birth, and it was patriotism that led her to give to her new discovery the name by which the world now knows it—polonium.

Scientists as yet understand too little of the marvelous properties of this new element to venture more than vague predictions of what sphere of future usefulness it may fill, but it is not improbable that it may be found to perform the present functions of the so-called Roentgen or X rays far more powerful and without the cumbersome apparatus now essential to their use.

Outdoes Even Radium.

In a much higher degree even than radium it possesses the property of shining in the dark, and although it is known that actual particles infinitesimally small, are being shot out from it continually—a fact which is proved by magnetic experiments—this strange substance does not seem to exhaust itself nor lose its luminous powers with the passage of time. Here, therefore, is a hint at least of the future possibility of a constant and brilliant illuminant generated without heat or combustion.

As a result of the discovery of this woman, Mme. Curie, she and her husband and a few chosen associates are enjoying at present a practical monopoly of a treasure mine richer far than one of gold or diamonds. Polonium is more valuable than radium, and Prof. Curie himself, who has a chemically pure specimen of radium not larger than a buckshot and weighing less than half a grain, would not sell it for $20,000. Strangely enough, the substance from which these precious grains of polonium are extracted is pitchblende, a sort of by-product found in Austria, and heretofore regarded as valueless after it had been used for the extraction of uranium.

Is Made From Mine Refuse.

It is from the castoff material of a Bohemian mine operated by the Austrian government that Mme. Curie and her husband are now obtaining their rich store of polonium. But as they were enterprising enough to obtain control of all of it that was in sight before others knew its rare possibilities, there is little polonium to be had even in Europe, except through them, and practically none at all in America.

Radium also is the discovery of Mme. Curie. What radium will do, she herself believes, polonium will do to a far greater degree. If, as Dr. Lunden, a German scientist, is reported to have said in Berlin, he has proved by experiments that rays reflected from radium enable the blind to see more or less clearly, then radium and polonium may yet be destined to work veritable modern miracles.

Dr. Lunden says that two Russian blind dogs on whom he has experimented have permanently regained their sight through the use of these rays. Startling as that statement seems, Prof. C. W. Kanolt, of Columbia University, said in a recent paper in the Scientific American:

"One of the most striking properties of radium is its luminosity. The pure radium chloride emits enough light to enable one to distinguish printed characters. The rays from radium excite phosphorescence in many bodies, such as zinc, sulphide, diamond, and even common salt. The luminosity of radium is, perhaps, but the phosphorescence produced by its own rays. If a small quantity of radium is held against the forehead while the eyes are closed, one will see light. The rays penetrate to the retina and cause it to phosphoresce."

Polonium Follows After Radium. In the same article Prof. Kanolt gives an interesting account of what led up to the earlier discoveries of Mme. Curie and her husband. He says:

"In 1896 Prof. Henri Becquerel of the Conservatoire des Arts et Metiers, at Paris, discovered the radio activity of uranium. He found that all compounds of uranium, as well as the metal itself, continually emit radiations, which act upon photographic plates and have a penetrating power similar to that of the X rays. Investigators immediately experimented with various materials with the hope that they might find other substances having the same property as uranium."

"Prof. Curie and Mme. Curie turned their attention to pitchblende, a mineral which consists largely of oxides of uranium. They found that some samples of this mineral from Bohemia possessed a greater activity than either uranium or thorium, the only substances then known to be radio active. This fact led them to the conclusion that the activity of the pitchblende must be due to some new element of great activity. In order to find this new substance they dissolved a quantity of pitchblende in acids and separated the material into portions containing different elements. They then observed which of these portions possessed radio activity. One portion they believed to contain a new element, which they called polonium; another yielded radium."

Tremendous Power of Metals.

"Absolutely pure radium does not exist as a metal. Only its salts are known. A firm of manufacturing chemists in Paris furnish tiny tubes of radium of a lower grade, containing an appreciable quantity of barium, for $5,000."

Prof. Charles Pellen of the chair of chemistry in Columbia University tells of a most startling property of radium. Prof. Becquerel obtained from Mme. Curie for demonstration purposes a small quantity of this strange substance, and, putting it into a little sealed test tube, he struck the tube into the watch pocket of his trousers near the waistband and carried it there until he was ready to use it in the evening.

It remained there about six hours. The next day he noticed a slightly sore and inflamed spot on the skin directly under the place where he had carried the radium. It developed into a dangerous sore, which required seven weeks to heal.

Prof. Curie was incredulous and determined to experiment upon himself. He applied a few atoms of the substance to his left arm, and nearly lost the arm before he recovered from the inflamed sore that followed.

Prof. Kanolt quotes Prof. Curie now as saying that he would not venture into a room containing two pounds of radium, which is as stated, less powerful than polonium, as it would probably destroy his eyesight, burn off his skin, and even kill him.

As to the probable efficacy of the discovery when properly applied to the blind, as mentioned by Dr. Lunden of Berlin Prof. Pellen does not venture an opinion. "We know too little of its properties here as yet," he said, "but its possibilities are doubtless great."

To California Through Colorado

By all odds the most intensely interesting way to California is through Denver and Salt Lake City, past all the magnificent Colorado scenery by daylight, and around Cape Horn on the Sierra Nevada. Another thing about this route is its peculiar freedom from severe storms and washouts which cause vexatious delays. Generally the sun shines clear and bright all the way. Our Personally Conducted Excursion parties from Chicago and St. Louis go that way every week. Ask your nearest ticket agent about them, or send to me for one of our folders describing the trip.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.

It takes a mighty good speller to write with someone looking over his shoulder.

There is this difference between a house and a woman. A coat of paint improves the house.

Just so much worrying must be done. If the husband is a "good fellow" the wife worries for two.

If a single man knew how much less interesting he becomes by marriage he would never do it.

They say that every man is cracked on some subject. Look yourself over: what is your specialty?

What has become of the old fashioned man who said, "I thought I would name it to you?"

There are some things people have no right to expect. Trains on time during a flood, for instance.

When a man doesn't grumble at his dinner, his wife feels that her cooking has been paid a compliment.

When a man has a fool notion he expects everybody to quit work, and listen while he talks about it.

They say a Panama hat will last for years, but it looks pretty tough at the beginning of the second season.

It is said at the joints that when a customer comes sneaking in the back way, he is apt to take a very big drink.

When a father asks a girl child how much money she needs, her mother soon teaches her to "make it enough."

To some people there come no prominence whatever in life; not even that in signing their names to a call for a meeting.

It is every one's secret hope that when the time comes for him to hand his baggage over to death to be checked he will not be afraid.

The only difference between a graduation dress and a wedding dress, so far as we can see, is that the latter is worn with more confidence.

THE BROAD JUMPER.

His Training Must Be Systematic to Get the Best Results.

Every schoolboy thinks that he can broad jump, and so he can to a certain degree. But this event is one which should be gone at systematically to get the best results. The jumper should first carefully notice his stride on going up to the take off, so that he can mark off a distance—say twenty-five yards back—and by stepping on this mark with one of his feet as he runs by he will be sure to strike the take off when he comes to it. The jumper cannot be sure of getting his best efforts into his jump unless he is practically sure of hitting the take off. After this has been acquired the athlete can get to work.

In this run the jumper's highest speed should be reached at about ten or twelve feet before the take off, so that he can gather himself for the jump. After leaving the take off he should shoot out and up. He must have elevation or his efforts will be in vain. He should go into the air at an angle of at least forty-five degrees. A good way to get this elevation is by placing a hurdle in the jumping pit and jumping over it. The jumper should gather himself together as he goes through the air, and at the finish, just before alighting, he should force himself on by a spasmodic effort with his arms and body. The legs will strike the ground at the farthest possible distance. Practice will show how far out the feet can be thrown without the athlete's falling back into the pit. It must be remembered that the greater the speed the farther out the feet can be thrown with safety. A great deal of practice is necessary to become a good broad jumper, but this is an event which it is not well to practice too frequently, as it is very hard on the legs. The broad jumper will therefore not expect to get at his best during his first season.—G. W. Orton in St. Nicholas.

TRAGEDY OF ANIMAL LIFE.

Something Pathetic in the Career of the Passenger Pigeon.

To him who knows the story of the passenger pigeon this group of beautiful, grayish brown birds with the iridescent golden sheen upon their throats is the last word of a tragedy of animal life. America was once the land of the wild pigeon. Early American writers are full of references to it. Alexander Wilson, the father of American ornithology, estimated that a flock seen by him in 1805 contained over 2,000,000 individuals. It stretched from the horizon to the horizon, as far as the eye could see, and was over four hours in passing a given point. He saw a nesting colony forty miles long and several miles in width.

In 1845 Audubon saw schooners at the wharves in New York loaded not in packages, but in bulk, with wild pigeons caught up the Hudson river and sold for a cent apiece. Up to 1860 the bird continued fairly abundant. Then a frightful slaughter began to supply an increased food demand. Gun, pole, club, net and sulphur pot were employed. Thirty dozen birds were captured at one spring of the net. One man netted 500 dozen in one day. In the nesting season trees were shaken or felled and wagon loads of squab taken nightly, droves of hogs being turned in to utilize what the "hunters" had left. Whenever the distracted flocks appeared the slaughter began. At the last known large pigeon "nesting" in 1878, a billion birds were killed during the season. Like the bison, it was effectually exterminated, showing the terrible efficiency of man when he sets out systematically in pursuit of a lower species.—New York Post.

Not Very Filling.

Mrs. Andrews was the most conscientious visitor of the district, but for various reasons she was not popular among the poor people whom she longed to help.

"I don't want to see that peaked looking woman in my room again, nor I won't," said the grandmother of the nine ragged children.

"I read my Bible and the best of folks," went on the old lady, "but there's times for some things an' times for others, an' that Andrews woman is without the sense to know the one from the other. What was the motto she brought us yesterday, all in red and gold letters, and we with empty stomachs?—'Be filled with faith!'"

Youth's Companion.

Bliss.

She put the book down, with a sigh. "What is it, darling?" he asked. "Ah, dearest, I'm so happy," she replied.

"But you had such a sad look in your eyes just now."

"I know. I've been reading about the unhappiness that the wives of men of genius have always had to bear. Oh, Alfred, dear, I'm so glad you're just an ordinary pulp of a fellow!"

Chicago Record-Herald

Her Theory.

"Do you believe men's souls go into animals after death?" he asked. "Well, I sometimes think perhaps they do," she answered. "There are some dogs who wouldn't be as mean as they are if it were not for an influence of some kind inside of them."

IN SEARCH OF AN AFFINITY

MARY WOOD

Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure

The blue waves danced shimmeringly in the sunlight. The three lounging in the shadow of the pier found its coolness grateful.

Kitty Covington sat up suddenly, scattering the sand in all directions. "Oh, I've lost my St. Joseph!" she cried, with a little gasp of dismay.

The men lying at her feet rose with one accord, anxious to appease her ladyship. "Lost what?" they asked in chorus.

"My St. Joseph," petulantly. "And now I shall never find it in all this waste of sand, nor my affinity." Her voice rose to a wail as she looked hopelessly at the long stretch of beach over which they had strolled from the hotel. The rising tide had already obliterated their footprints.

"I never guessed that you had anything saintly about you," Tom Patton began teasingly.

She flashed him a look, but he went on unabashed. "And what's that you said about affinities?"

The girl's pretty face flushed pinkly. "Oh, nothing," she declared, with palpably assumed carelessness, gazing fixedly at a passing sail. But they would not be gainsaid, so finally she told them.

"It's an image of the saint I was wearing around my neck so that I"—she hesitated, but went on delicately—"should know when I met my affinity."

A shout of laughter went up from the men.

Kitty jumped to her feet and started to poke diligently with her parasol in the sand where she had been sitting. "It only shows how ignorant you all are when you laugh like that," she said severely. "I have known girls who tried it, and it came true every time. I must find my saint or"—She paused expressively.

"Your saint is a slacker to leave you in the lurch in this heartless fashion," Tom said lightly. Kitty could not read below the laughter in his eyes. Her own flushed as he went on soothingly, "Perhaps your saintly will find you."

The girl turned to him scornfully. "And so you advise me to wait patiently, like an unknown continent, till I am discovered. Thank you, but I prefer to do my own choosing. I just must find that St. Joseph."

Allan Winthrop had been searching in the sand heap, his anxiety in marked contrast to Tom's coolness. He raised a face flushed by his exertions, saying reassuringly: "Oh, your saint shall be found, Miss Kitty; never fear. And no doubt the lucky man who brings it back to you will be your affinity."

Kitty gave him one of her charming smiles. Tom's indifference to her keen needed punishment. "I have unlimited faith in St. Joseph," she said sweetly; "so do find him for me, Mr. Winthrop."

The two started up the beach, Allan radiant over such unusual encouragement of his hopes. But Tom's face still wore a teasing smile as he picked up the forgotten parasol and followed them at his leisure.

During the next three or four days all the unmarried men, more or less secretly, spent considerable time and thought in search for the missing saint. Was not Miss Covington the prettiest girl at the Point and the most willful? But her willfulness seemed only to add to her charm. No; not all the men. There was one who went on his way serenely, apparently quite oblivious to the necessity for exertion—Tom Patton.

Strangely enough, he was the one man whom Kitty ardently desired to bring to her feet. It was the old story of the pursuit of the unattainable, reticent with modern settings, though Kitty would have indignantly denied any deliberate angling. "Only I would like to have the pleasure of refusing him," she said to herself vindictively. "Even if I am only eighteen and ten years younger than he is, he must learn to take me seriously. Oh, I will teach him!"

A letter came to Miss Covington one afternoon that made her wrinkle her pretty forehead in surprise. It was from her cousin, Tom Carruth, rising and in the largest retail jewelry house of the nearest metropolis.

"What new craze has struck the Point?" the offending paragraph ran. "Here we have had three orders come in from men there in the last few days for images of St. Joseph. Are you having revival meetings? I guess not, particularly as each order states 'let the king usually worn by young ladies as charms.' We don't keep them on hand, so had to send for some. But we are expecting them, so three young ladies will be the happy recipients in a day or two."

Kitty's lips parted in a very wide, but the walls of her room never betrayed the undelivered proceeding.

It was that very evening that Tom asked her to take a stroll up the beach. She assented with unusual alacrity.

They were far beyond the sound of the orchestra in the hotel ballroom before Tom broke the silence.

"I am going back to town Monday," he began abruptly. The girl on his arm shivered, but it might have been from chill at the sea mist which was rising. "A month has been an unusually long vacation for me. I was so worn out that they made me take it."

Still the girl made no reply.

"It has been a very happy time," he went on more gently, "and you have made it happy for me, little girl. It has been good of you to give so much of your time to a sober old fellow like me."

Kitty drew away from him. "Why don't you say that it has been kind of you to give so much of your elevating influence to a foolish butterfly like myself?"

"Kitty!" With a masterful movement he put his hand under her chin and turned her face up to his in the moonlight. There were tears in the dark eyes, and the mouth trembled pitifully.

"Kitty!" he cried again, but this time his voice was full of mad happiness as he bent and pressed his lips to hers.

"And it was all without the help of St. Joseph," she said a little later.

The old teasing look came into Tom's face. "I have something to confess," he began meekly. He thrust his hand into his vest pocket and drew out—the St. Joseph. "I picked it up the day you lost it," he said contritely. "I never meant to keep it. But I did want something of yours so that I had no hope of winning you. And then I think I was a bit jealous of the old fellow. I was afraid he might do some unfair discriminating."

The next morning Kitty was offered three several St. Josephs, with the slight incumbrance of three hands and hearts. But she refused them all collectively. "I don't need any more St. Josephs," she said, with a charming blush, "for I have found my affinity." And by noon the Point was agog over the latest engagement. "It was all through the St. Joseph," the girls said. But two people know better.

A Lazy Race.

A lazier man than the average Burman it would be extremely hard to find. When it is absolutely necessary for him to work, he generally hits upon some method which will save him a lot of exertion. If he wishes to cultivate a piece of ground, he sets light to the brushwood as a cheap, easy and efficacious method of preparing the soil. For two or three years he cultivates that piece of land, and then he sets light to another spot, allowing the jungle to grow in the old place, which will be ready for reburning when the other ground wants a rest.

Rice growers dispense with plows, turning loose instead a number of buffaloes, who cut up the saturated soil with their hoofs. When a Burman has earned a little money, he immediately proceeds to spend it all, for the Burman has no ambition to be rich and never hoards; consequently there are no large landowners, and, there being no aristocracy, the people are as near being on an equality as possible. Poor people are quite as rare as rich people, and the only beggars to be met with are the lepers, who sit on the steps of the pagodas.

Tubbing.

"Tubbing," as the Britishers call it, is not so modern a custom after all. Even eccentric baths, such as those of milk and of flowers, are not a novelty. Isabeau of Bavaria used to have great decoctions of chickweed brewed daily, and in them she would take her tub. Diana of Poitiers took her morning plunge in a tub of rain water. Eighteenth century beauties swore by baths mingled with linseed distilled with Mexican balm, which was dissolved with the yolk of an egg. Or they believed in preparations of almonds and melon juice, milk of green barley, veal bouillon and water distilled from the honey extracted from roses. Marie Antoinette was addicted to tubbing, and she always liked to have her bath flavored with wild thyme, laurel leaves, marjoram and a little sea salt. On the other hand, there was the Princess Eekmuhl, who at the age of eighty-five, her exquisite complexion and her abundant hair and who never used anything but pure water on her face.—New York Press.

Grant's Boy Admirer.

An intimate friend of President Grant said to him one day, "General, my little boy has heard that all great men write poor hands, but he says he believes you are a great man in spite of the fact that you write your signature so plainly that anybody can read it."

The president took a card from his pocket, wrote his name on it and handed it to him.

"Give that to your boy," he said, "and tell him it is the signature of a man who is not at all great—but that fact must be kept a secret between him and me."

Not Afraid.

It was a question of dining in that restaurant or going hungry, and I foolishly chose not to go hungry. When the young woman waiter brought my soup, I said with what I thought was fine sarcasm:

"Aren't you afraid of scalding your thumb?"

"Naw," she grinned, "tain't as hot as all that!"—Brooklyn Eagle.

All other leakages in the family in come become needle's eyes by comparison with the big hole through which money must pour for a child's education at college.

And Costs for Two of the Rowdies

Who Assaulted Neal Roush at the Park.

The Third Member of the Party Will Appear Before Justice Reilly at 7 O'clock This Evening.

Justice Reilly made an example of two of the offenders, who assaulted special officer Roush at McBeth's park, and both are subjected to a fine of $25 and costs. Wm. Ford and Roy Wise both pleaded not guilty when arraigned but the evidence was so strong against them that they couldn't help but realize that a trial would only be piling up the expense. They accordingly changed their plea and having confessed their guilt are left to count out the dollars which were wasted in a moment's rioting. It will be a lesson to both the offenders and as well as a warning to others who attempt to disturb the peace at the popular resort. The third one of the trio is Henry Overholtz, and Constable Miller has had some trouble in locating him. He was finally arrested, but has not yet been disposed of, his hearing being set for 7 o'clock this evening.

RIPE IN YEARS

Dr. O. Everts Passed to His Last Reward.

He Was the Father of Mrs. Jas. K. Brice, of Lima. Funeral Services Held Today at Indianapolis.

Concerning the death of Dr. Everts, which occurred on Friday morning, at College Hill Sanitarium, the Cincinnati Commercial of Saturday, says: "Dr. O. Everts, one of Cincinnati's most prominent physicians and superintendent of the College Hill Sanitarium, died Friday morning, at 8:30 o'clock, after an eight weeks' illness with appendicitis. He was 77 years of age."

"Dr. Everts was born in Salem settlement, Union County, Ind., Dec. 18, 1826. He received his medical education in the Medical College of Indiana, and in 1846, at the age of 20 years, commenced practice in St. Charles, Ill. From 1854 to 1857, he edited a political paper at Laporte, Ind., and in 1860 he completed the study of law, and was admitted to the bar. In 1856, he was elected a presidential elector from Indiana. In 1859, Dr. Everts was appointed registrar of the United States land office, at Hudson, Wis., and held that position until 1861. He then resigned to enter the Union army. He was appointed a field surgeon, with the title of major, and served with the army of the Potomac until July, 1865, just four years after his enlistment. He was in all the battles in which the army of the Potomac participated, except Bull Run and Antietam."

"At the close of the war, Dr. Everts again resumed the practice of medicine. In 1868, he was elected a member of the Indiana legislature. From 1868 to 1879, he was superintendent of the State Hospital for the insane at Indianapolis. From 1878 to 1879, he was professor of nervous and mental diseases at the Women's Medical College. In 1879, he was also appointed pension examiner at Indianapolis. In 1880, he was appointed superintendent of the College Hill Sanitarium and held that position to the time of his death."

"Dr. Everts was a voluminous writer on medical subjects, and is the author of numerous pamphlets interesting to the medical profession, which have attracted considerable attention to him. He was a member of the local Academy of Medicine of the American Medical Society, American Medical and Psychological association, the Loyal Legion, the Mississippi Valley Medical association, and of the Masonic order."

"A widow and three children survive him. The children are Dr. C. C. Everts a dentist of Indianapolis, Mrs. John K. Brice, of Lima, O., and Mrs. Willard O. Robb of New York City. All were here at the time of his death."

The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the sanitarium. Dr. Ely conducted the service. The body was taken to Indianapolis for interment, Monday morning.

PROPERTY OF U. S.

Richmond, Va., June 22.—In the chancery court today, Judge Ginnin dissolved the injunction restraining the United States government from taking possession of the cruiser Galveston. The federal government stipulates that the ship shall remain the property of the Trigg Co. creditors until the case is determined by the court of highest resort. The Galveston will be launched this week.

THE IDLER.

Col. Syl Brunt, has retired from business, after having conducted a hotel and cafe for a number of years across from the C. H. & D. depot. Baggage-master J. T. Reeves, was the purchaser.

The Moose club, of Wapakoneta, will hold a street fair and carnival, in that city, on July 8, 9, 10 and 11, on Auglatze street, the main business street. On July 10, the Lima lodge of Elks, to which lodge all the Elks in Wapakoneta belong, will give a clam bake at the fair grounds.

John H. Moore and family, of north Elizabeth street, left yesterday for their cottage at "The Snows." Within the next few weeks, the Lima colony which is growing larger every year, will all be at home again at the pleasant summer resort.

Will Bell, who has been a fireman on the C. H. & D. road for several years, has decided to give up the scoop and go into business for himself. He purchased a half interest in E. W. Mosier's laundry on west North street this morning and his popularity is sure to benefit both himself and his partner.

TRUSTEES OF MCKINLEY

Memorial Association Have Half Million Dollars in Hand for Monument.

Competition So Far as Nature of Work and Artistic Effect Are Concerned, Is Open to Artists of the World.

Cleveland, O., June 22.—The trustees of the McKinley National Memorial association, met here today, at the office of Senator Hanna, for the purpose of reviewing the work so far accomplished and deciding upon future action. The meeting was presided over by Mr. Justice Day, the president of the association. A report from the officers of the association, and also one from treasurer Myron T. Herrick, showed total contributions amounting to about five hundred thousand dollars, and it was decided that designs should be at once invited, to be inspected and acted upon at such time as the board may determine. The trustees issued the following statement at the conclusion of the meeting:

"Experience in respect to other national memorials, has been so unfortunate that the trustees of this association are determined that the monument, when erected, shall be properly cared for out of a fund which is yet to be supplied, and it is estimated that one hundred thousand dollars additional funds will be necessary to build and endow the monument. The monuments erected to the memory of Lincoln and other great Americans, suffered for want of provision for their maintenance, or an admittance fee is charged to cover the expense thereof. Considering these facts, the trustees most urgently request renewed efforts on the part of all interested in the work for the raising of this additional fund. It is thought that, when the facts are fully known, and the necessity for additional fund is recognized, the money will be forthcoming."

"The association now feels warranted, in view of the time necessarily required to consider and select an appropriate design in announcing to artists and designers of monumental architecture that it is now prepared to consider designs for the memorial to be built at Canton, O. The competition, so far as the nature of the work and artistic effects are concerned, is open to the artists of the world, the assistance of all interested being desired in the hope that the memorial may be a true expression of the affection of the American people who have aided so generously in commemorating the life and character of William McKinley."

"Letters of inquiry addressed to Mr. Frederick S. Hartsell, assistant secretary, Canton, Ohio, will have prompt attention."

NEVER HEARD

Of the Hog With the Hypnotic Eye.

"Never heard of a hog with the hypnotic eye," queried Pearl Souder, one of the animal superintendents with Ringling Brothers' circus, who is here to see that everything is in shape for the big show, which comes to Lima Wednesday.

The Times Democrat man to whom the question was propounded was forced to admit that he had a very limited number of friends among animals, and in consequence had failed to make the acquaintance of the wonderful hog.

"Well, he's a dandy," continued the circus man, "and if you do not believe what I'm going to tell you, I will prove my assertions when the circus arrives. This hog comes from South Africa and in natural history is called the Viack Viack. He is the wild hog of South Africa and is about the ugliest critter that ever occupied a gliding cage in a circus menagerie. He is round-bodied and very fat, just like a Lima hog, and possesses the same sort of an appetite. His head is extremely large and on either side of it, his eyes—big unnatural looking eyes—stick out like bunions on a stout man's feet."

"When we first received the hog we dubbed him Pete, and thrust him into a roomy cage next to the one occupied by a large ostrich. Next day 'Bear Jack,' who looked after the leopards and the bears, was passing the cage and noticed the ostrich doing some decidedly queer stunts. The poor bird was whirling around like a dervish, all the while pecking in a frantic manner at the bars. Then Jack looked at the hog and noticed that his gaze was riveted upon the bird. Then and there Jack decided that the hog possessed a hypnotic power and had influenced the ostrich, but he kept his own counsel for fear of being jeered at by his companions."

"He watched the hog patiently, and in a few days noticed him practicing the black art on a Bengal tiger. The latter moved slowly back and forth and seemed unable to draw himself away from Pete's evil eye. Then the hog fastened his malignant optics on an elephant and the big brute trumpeted like mad."

"Jack decided that quick action was needed to eliminate the power of the South African product, and in consequence he informed me of what he had seen. Of course I was skeptical, but when I witnessed a performance by the hog, with a green-faced monkey as the victim, I resorted to stringent measures."

"And what did you do?" queried the newspaper man.

"Oh, I fitted a pair of green glasses over the hog's eyes and gave up hypnotism for good," answered Souder.

An elderly man very much delighted to have a dippy young woman call him papa.

COLLEGE

Crews Training Hard for Friday Race.

Despite the Intense Cold Weather, Several Sharp Brushes Were Pulled Off.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 22.—Despite the continued cold weather, rough water and the absence of sunshine the fifteen college crews in training for Friday's race were all at work today. Wisconsin, Syracuse, Pennsylvania and Georgetown presented a pretty sight, all rowing up stream together. None of these crews held races but contended themselves with limbering up and preparing for harder practice late this afternoon.

Cornell's eights rowed seven miles. They started up the river at a slow rate, but on the last mile there was a hot brush. The freshmen had a lead of two lengths and the varsity was unable to catch down. In a 3-mile race down stream the premier boat won easily.

Columbia's men were worked hard after their day of rest yesterday. The varsity, is rowing well but the freshmen have not yet become accustomed to their new combination.

Mrs. Thompson, will give a free talk on astrology, Wednesday, June 24, in the basement of the court house, at 8 o'clock.

BUSY

Day in the Police Court.

A Few Drunks

Thrown in With Two Peace Destroyers,

Who Fought With a Vengence and Left Scars to Tell the Tale.

A Serious Fight in a Main Street
Saloon and a "Chewing" Match on North Elizabeth Street.

Geo. Miller, of Shawnee township, has a skull which turned a brick with out a fracture or there might be other chapters written concerning a saloon fight, which occurred Saturday evening, at Myer's place, on south Main street. Both men were arrested, and it developed that Miller had previously struck McGraw and knocked him down. The latter took summary revenge, and used a brick to make his assault more impressive. McGraw received the blow on top of his head, and an ugly gash laid him low.

Drs. Thomas and Steiner were called into the case, and took a number of stitches to bring the torn scalp together. Miller was fined $5.00 for being drunk and disorderly, and McGraw will spend seven days behind the bars of the county jail.

CHEWED HIS EAR.

And a Woman Was At the Bottom of It All.

Wm. Derringer and Burt Chesbro, had a fight on north Elizabeth street which resulted disastrously for the former. Arrests were made, but neither cared to push the prosecution, and the police were left powerless. Chesbro is a married man, but an investigation brought out the fact that a woman was at the bottom of the trouble. Derringer's ear showed marks of having come into contact with a hungry man.

SMALLWOOD'S TRIAL.

Conducted in the Presence of a Crowded Room.

The charge against Billie Smallwood, of having sold liquor to a minor, is being investigated this afternoon. Solicitor Bentley is conducting the prosecution and J. W. Halfhill represents the defendant. A number of witnesses were summoned, including Charlie Ackerman, who was originally charged with the same offense, but settled the case out of court.

Mayor Robb heard the evidence in the case and at 2:30 this afternoon, discharged the defendant, on the grounds, that the prosecution had failed to prove the allegations, which made up the warrant.

Some of the Drift.

Oron Dull, Dan Lynch, Dick Holland and Henry Howard, are all registered as "common drunks." Holland put up $5.50 for his appearance, Lynch and Dull are yet to be disposed of, and Howard, who is an old man, was released after he sobered up.

TIMES-DEMOCRAT WON.

The long discussed game of base ball between the Times-Democrat employees and the Republican-Gazette, has taken place, and some fellows are sore, and they don't belong in this of five either.

Never was there such braggadocio, and self-praise wind jamming, as the Republican-Gazette smeared over its players, and their pitcher, who has been reducing his weight, and practicing on curves in back alleys. Well, he simply thought himself the real western Christy Mathewson, of Lima House alley. His career was short.

The Times-Democrat boys let him live until the fourth inning, just as a matter of courtesy to the profession, and then the bombardment began, and it didn't end until they had hit him for eleven runs, and much mental anguish. He was retired with ignominy, but even that didn't save the game to them, the final score being 16 to 13, in favor of the only printing office in Lima the Times Democrat.

JURY

Is Not of the Same
Opinion

In the Case

Of State of Ohio Against Max Bernstein.

Charge of the Court Was Carefully Delivered at 9:30 This Morning

But a Verdict Had Not Been Returned at Three O'clock This Afternoon—Other Matters in Court.

Judge Cunningham had the petit jury in the Bernstein case before him this morning, and delivered the charge which leaves the case in their hands, shorn of all the obsolete evidence. There were three counts in the indictment, and the explanation left it plain for the jury to select whatever degree of offense the defendant might be found guilty of, providing of course, that the state had proven, beyond a reasonable doubt that any crime had been committed.

The trial of the case lasted three days, and the argument extended to such a late hour, Saturday evening that the court did not deem it wise to deliver the charge at that hour, dismissing the jury until nine o'clock this morning.

At three o'clock this afternoon, the jury had failed to reach an agreement, and it is beyond the power of any man to say what the outcome of the stubbornly contested case is likely to be.

Names a Receiver.

Probate Judge Miller, has announced his decision in the case of Clark vs. King, et al, and holds that a receiver can be appointed to investigate whether or not the defendants have any property on which a levy can be made to pay off the judgment. John H. Miller, was named and gave bond in the sum of $3,000.

Two That Were Cruel.

"Cruelty" is entered opposite two degrees for divorce on the journal docket, which were granted by Judge Cunningham, Saturday evening. Wm. M. Mowery, was released from Orphan, his wife and Laura Scullen got a divorce from Henry. The Mowerys have been married a long time and have several grown up children.

Wants to Try It Alone.

Laura Pierce, after seven years of married life, has reached the conclusion, that all the aid she has received from her husband, Arthur Pierce, does not assist greatly in the support of herself and five-year old daughter. She asks for a divorce on the ground of gross neglect of duty, and says that for four years, she has been compelled to work as a domestic in private homes, and hotels. The petition was filed by attorney P. A. Kahle.

DECIDEDLY

Close Was the Score But Lima Won.

The Grays, of the east end, went to Westminster, yesterday, and played a game of ball, in which Westminster was defeated. The game was close and exciting, all the way through. The features of the game, were "Cully" Williamson's one hand catch, of a line drive, over second base, catching a man at second, and completing a double play, and M. Fisher's fine pitching, striking out fourteen men.
